However ideal the objective of the UK government's 'Digital by Default' strategy, the non-collaborative approach taken by the various government agencies will inadvertently add complexity to law firm processes.

Separate sign-ins and different workflows for each authority are just 2 examples of why government portals are not the ideal environment for legal practitioners.

Additional efficiency barriers include limited functionality and reporting, time-out issues and, critically for law firms, a threat that risk management and compliance could be compromised.

The Oyez Gateway was developed to overcome all of the shortcomings of government portals. Our primary aim is to allow legal firms to collaborate and incorporate e- submissions into their current workflow using 1 common process for multiple agencies.

MR01 Companies House Submissions

- Multiple submissions of MR01 handled efficiently with the duplicate MR01 option
- Forms are accepted and certificate returned within 24 hours
- Data automatically populates in the accepted authority format
- 21 day deadline is monitored with appropriate warnings
- Rejections can be edited and re-submitted immediately
- User access and permissions are controlled
- Authorised auditor approves prior to submission
- Submission history provides a complete audit trail
- All files are data encrypted and transferred via Secure HTTPS transmission

Coming Soon . . .

In order to deliver the greatest benefit to our customers, our initial priority is to target the submission portals of the agencies that have a firm 'switch to digital' date.

The Companies House Mortgage Charge (MR01) module is only the first step on a development platform that will also support submissions to the following agencies:

- HMRC-SDLT
- Land Registry
- Office of the Public Guardian

The demand for additional portal modules will expand as more firms move to digital.
